GCCISD Students Saddle Up For Rodeo Art Contest

Students from all Goose Creek CISD campuses have been pouring their ideas, knowledge and artistic skill onto canvases during the fall semester in hopes of being selected as one of the twenty-five limited entries into this year's Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo School Art competition.

As part of the H.L.S.R. celebration, students from across the Greater Houston area are invited to submit visual artworks to the contest The Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo™ School Art Program currently hosts competitions in approximately 90 public independent school districts and 40 private schools within 120 miles of the city of Houston.

Each year, about 250,000 students, grades pre-K through 12th, participate in this program, which showcases the culture, history and heritage of the West. The district is thrilled at the participation and energy in this year's entries.

"Our faculty has truly equipped our students for an exemplary level of creative submissions to this year's School Art contest for the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo," said GCCISD Director of Fine Arts Phillip Morgan.

Faculty members from each GCCISD campus will be submitting entries which will be hung during the holiday break for adjudication on Wednesday evening, January 6, 2016, at the Goose Creek CISD Administration Building.

Parents, community members, students and staff are invited to join the visual artists and faculty at the Fine Arts Department's special awards reception and viewing of the K-12 artworks on Tuesday, January 12, 2016, from 5 p.m. until 7 p.m., which will also be hosted at the GCCISD Administration Building.
