Stephen F. Austin Elementary presents annual wax museum

Stephen F. Austin Elementary held its annual Wax Museum on March 7 and 8.

The library was transformed into a museum setting as second grade GATE students conducted research and designed costumes to depict famous American mathematicians, inventors, and scientists, such as Alexander Graham Bell, Dr. James Naismith, Maria Mitchell and Eli Whitney.

The students worked on these projects during their biography unit under the supervision of teachers Priscilla Woolford (substitute for Sheri Thomas) and Sharon Shipp. Sheri Thomas started the Wax Museum tradition for Goose Creek CISD.

Visitors could push a button in front of the figures, and the students would come to life to tell about the famous people they represented.

Students, teachers, parents and other visitors made their way through the wax museum, taking in all the hard work, time and effort the students put into playing their parts.
