

Districts adds students and teachers

More than 21,000 students walked through the doors of the District's schools as the 2013-2014 school year officially got underway. This figure shows an increase from last year's enrollment.

The District expects enrollment to continue increasing over the next couple of weeks.

Goose Creek CISD also has hired more than 265 new teachers to serve its growing population. According to Susan Moore-Fontenot, director of personnel, sixteen elementary, 37 junior school and 25.5 high school teachers were hired due to program changes primarily to meet the new accountability system and to improve STAAR test results.

Other positions were a result of curriculum-based decisions affecting the entire PK-12 instructional program (i.e. English, writing and math), elective (i.e. Spanish) and extracurricular (i.e. band) offerings.
